CHAPTER I

INTRODUCTION

In chapter I, the writer presents introduction. It consists of background of the study, the limitation of the study, the problem of the study, the aim of the study, the use of the study, the clarification of the key terms, and the organization of the study.

A. The Background of the Study

Reading is not an easy skill since it needs comprehension. It is not only pronouncing word but also requires understanding. Comprehending a text is more than just recognizing and understanding words. True comprehension means making sense of what we read and connect the ideas in the text with our background knowledge. According to Johnson (2008: 3), reading is the practice of using text to create meaning. It means that reading is the act of linking one idea to another. Putting all of the ideas to create a meaning is the essential part of reading. During reading, readers combine the information found on the page with the information contained in our head to create meaning. Reading fluency, one of the ability in reading, helps the readers to recognize words automatically. Automatic word recognition improves comprehension by allowing the reader to use more thinking space focusing on the meaning of the message instead of letters and individual words (Kuder and Hasit, 2002; in Johnson, 2008: 79).

Blachowicz and Ogle (2008: 15) states that reading is essential for people who gain information and ideas from books, newspapers, manuals, letters, contracts, advertisements and a host of other materials. Using strategies for constructing meaning pre, while, and post reading can help students connect what they are reading now with what they have learned in the past. It means that there should be connection between the readers' knowledge and their prediction with the text. Asiri and Momani (2017: 5) says that reading comprehension involves the coherence of the readers' previous experience and knowledge about language and the world. When the reader understands words from reading material, the denotations and their connotations, responds to them and assimilates them, it can be known an effective reading. Meanwhile, Johnson (2008: 7) states that through reading students have incidental contact with the grammar rules. Developing the language structure and grammar can also increase their knowledge and vocabulary. Because of the knowledge of how texts work is also very important in early reading (Harrison, 2004: 39).

In classroom interaction, a gap between teacher and students can cause some problems in teaching learning process. According to Mercury and Boboli (2012: 323), problems that are often faced by students are; they may be embarrassed and feel anxied when they speak and afraid of making mistakes in front of the class or peers, in the classroom, groups, and paired discussions. While Apsari and Yana (2015: 217) states that it is indicated in teaching reading comprehension, there were four problems encountered by the respondents in teaching reading; lack of students' vocabulary mastery, lack of motivation in reading, students were not used to read a lot on a regular basis and teaching time allocation.

Having the problems above, there must be suitable technique for teaching reading. Besides teachers must be a good role model in teaching and practicing reading in the classroom. They have to use an appropriate strategies that can be involved the students' reading ability. In addition, one of the appropriate techniques of reading skill is SQ3R (Survey, Question, Read, Recite, and Review). According to Asiri and Momani (2017: 1), SQ3R (Survey, Question, Read, Recite, and Review) is a strategy that activates learners' schemata through "survey". The result shows that students using SQ3R reading comprehension strategy performed reading activities better than those who did not. However, the implementation of SQ3R helped the students to comprehend English texts, and the students responded the implementation of SQ3R positively. The students were interested and enthusiastic in reading English text by using SQ3R. They also focused while reading texts by using SQ3R (Masruroh, 118-119).

Indonesia uses the curriculum of character education well known as 2013 curriculum. The purpose of teaching and learning is to evaluate moral and character education. This curriculum is based on the competencies concerning on implementing four aspects of spiritual, attitude, knowledge and skills in order to achieve students character building (Ekawati, 2017:

41). This method also aims to introduce the importance of positive social manners and moral education.

According to Undang Undang tahun 2003 Nomor 20 pasal 3 about Pendidikan Budaya dan Karakter Bangsa, it states that:

Pendidikan nasional berfungsi mengembangkan dan membentuk watak serta peradaban bangsa yang bermartabat dalam rangka mencerdaskan kehidupan bangsa, bertujuan untuk berkembangnya potensi peserta didik agar menjadi manusia yang beriman dan bertakwa kepada Tuhan Yang Maha Esa, berakhlak mulia, sehat, berilmu, cakap, kreatif, mandiri, dan menjadi warga Negara yang demokratis serta bertanggung jawab

The facts above motivate the writer to apply SQ3R method to the tenth year students of SMA Muhammadiyah 1 Klaten in academic year 2019/2020 to improve their character based reading ability. Because they need practice a lot to be able to master the reading skill. Applying SQ3R method in English class can enrich the students' ideas and vocabularies so that they can comprehend text better and efficient.

Chapter II is the review of related literature. It consists of previous studies, position of the study, theory of reading, teaching reading, SQ3R, theoretical framework, and action hypothesis.

Chapter III is the method of the study. It consists of the meaning of method, the strategy of the research, the data and source of data, the technique of collecting the data, the validity of data, the procedure of the action, the analysis of data, and testing performance indicator.

Chapter IV is the result of the study. It consists of the data analysis, and the discussion of the research findings.

Chapter V deals with the conclusion and suggestion.

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION AND SUGESTION

After conducting the whole steps of this classroom action research, the writer would like to give conclusion as the result of this research. Furthermore, related to the conclusion the writer also gives suggestion. They are described one by one below.

A. Conclusion

The action research carried out in SMA Muhammadiyah 1 Klaten shows that teaching reading using SQ3R method can be used to SQ3R improve character based reading of the tenth year students of SMA Muhammadiyah 1 Klaten in academic year of 2019/2020. The stages of SQ3R method help the students in improving their reading ability especially in determining main idea, implicit information, kind of the text, purpose of the text and gaining new vocabularies. SQ3R method is also able to increase students' character. They are pro-active, confident, hardworking, creative, and responsible.

In terms of quantitative data, there is an improvement on the students' reading skill. It can be seen from the result of pre-cycle, cycle 1, and cycle 2. The mean of the students' reading skill improves from 48.16 on pre-cycle to 70.79 on cycle 1 then improved again to 78.16 on cycle 2. Meanwhile, the students' character also improves from 48.95 in the pretest, 68.68 in cycle 1, and to 78.68 in cycle 2.

B. Suggestion

Seeing the problem, the writer wants to give some suggestions to the students the English teacher, and the other researcher related to this research. They are presented as follows.

1. To the Students

The students should practice reading English texts more. If they find difficulties in understanding the texts, they can implement the SQ3R technique. Before using the technique, they have to understand what they should do in every step.

2. To the English Teachers

The teachers should learn how to enhance their abilities in teaching English and be creative to use various techniques in teaching reading so the students are interested and actively involved in teaching and learning process. There are many kinds of techniques that can be used in teaching reading such as using SQ3R method, bottom-up and top-down strategies, scanning, skimming, and summarizing technique, etc. Appropriate teaching technique and teaching aids can facilitate teacher to attain instructional objective.

Besides, the English teachers are suggested that they implement SQ3R strategy to improve the students' reading comprehension achievement. They should make a good preparation before implementing the SQ3R strategy. They are also suggested keeping giving help and guidance during the implementation of SQ3R strategy, and give a clear instruction to the students in every step of SQ3R to avoid misunderstanding on the instruction given.

3. To other Researchers

In this study, the researcher conducted the research in one month because of the limited time. Other researchers may follow up this study in a longer time in order to find more actions to improve students' reading skill. They can conduct this study in other schools which have different characteristics from SMA Muhammadiyah 1 Klaten so that the research findings can be more generalizable.
